

The Holiday Gift Guide for Charleston Food Lovers

Check off these restaurant and bar-related items from your shopping list

by Erin Perkins | @EaterCHS | Nov 15, 2016, 10:02am EST

Image credit: Leslie McKellar

With holidays right around the corner, it's time to think about gifts for friends and family. Luckily, Charleston has a wealth of food and beverage items ready to purchase and ship directly to your loved ones. From locally roasted coffee beans to cocktail mixers to a decadent coconut cake, you'll find something for everyone on your list here. There's stocking stuffers, extravagant presents, and everything in between. And, if you're not in the giving mood this year, save a few of these products to stock up your own pantry. Buy local and buy often — here are the Eater Charleston-approved items for your consideration.

King Bean Coffee

Local coffee roasters King Bean are here to keep you caffeinated for the holidays.

Available in a variety of single origins & blends including their 2016 holiday blend “Peace & Joe” — it’s bold and festive, just like your parties should be. Bring a few bags along for an easy host gift or to perk up the office coffee maker. Price: $12.99